Learning Objectives

CPA hosts a national convention that attracts over 1000 scientists and practitioners of psychology each year. In 2012, we have received 1200 conference submissions which will cover a variety of psychology-related topics and presentation formats to include posters, workshops, symposia, keynote lectures, and conversation sessions. CPA conventions offer three general learning opportunities for delegates. The first is a tremendous breadth of psychology research – delegates have the opportunity to learn about advances and developments in a broad array of areas such as clinical psychology, cognitive science, social psychology, clinical neuropsychology, psychologists in education, industrial organizational psychology, developmental psychology, counseling psychology, and criminal justice psychology to name only a few. The second is an opportunity, through meetings and presentations, to learn about developments and issues that govern practice, science and education in psychology such as legislation and standards governing clinical practice and granting and funding for research. Third is an opportunity to network with colleagues from across the country and to exchange information on initiatives and best practices and develop practice and research collaborations.
