Dr. Saeid Chavoshi, PhD, Clinical Psychologist

Learn from the journeys of our panel of professionals and executives who have leveraged their graduate work and PhD in experimental psychology to various industries and career paths, including data science, user experience design, strategy and consulting, marketing, and government policy work.

We will discuss specific opportunities designed to bridge your academic skills with industry, such as the Impact Fellowship, MITACS, Data Science incubators, and emphasize the transferable skills and experiences that you can pursue during your graduate studies to pave the way for a fulfilling career outside of academia.

Panel members are psychology graduates who are pursuing professional careers at various industries including IBM, Meta, Spotify, Skip the Dishes, and Sunlife.
