WELCOME TO THE 5TH NORTH AMERICAN CORRECTIONAL AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE PSYCHOLOGY CONFERENCE!

Toward a Justice System that Works

Since 2007, the “N” conference has established itself as a leading international gathering of prominent scholars, practitioners, students and graduates in our field. N5 continues in this tradition. Following our pre-convention professional development workshops, we have three days packed with sessions spanning from correctional treatment and forensic mental health to issues such as racial bias and public attitudes. This work includes theory, research, and evidence-based practice.

Our international presence continues to grow, with keynote speakers from the USA, UK, and Europe. The conference is supported by a steering committee and marketing team with members from across Canada, the UK, the USA, Australia and New Zealand, and abstracts were submitted from around the globe! For some, this may be your first in-person conference since the pandemic and we welcome you back warmly.

We especially welcome students who are presenting or attending for the first time! We strive to be a student-friendly conference and we hope you will take advantage of the chance to network at the Friday afternoon poster session, or at the meet-the-speaker sessions designed for you to have a less formal interaction with our keynote speakers. At the Student Breakfast on Sunday, students can gather for some early morning nourishment, connecting, and discussion of career opportunities.

Please join us Saturday evening for our Celebration of Excellence Banquet, where we will announce the CPA Criminal Justice Psychology Section awards and student poster prize winners. It will also be a great opportunity to meet up with friends and colleagues and enjoy some refreshments.

We hope presenters will consider submitting their work to a special N5 issue of Psychological Services. See the information in this program and in the handout at the conference.

I would like to thank the Steering Committee members who have given their wise advice, experienced leadership, and dependable contributions to the conference planning. I'm indebted to the founding Chair, Jeremy Mills, and to past Chair, Joe Camilleri, who established and sustained the foundations that have made this conference a success. Many thanks to Lisa Votta-Bleeker, Chair of the Canadian Psychological Association (CPA) Convention Committee, for her tireless and gracious support, along with fellow CPA head office staff. We also thank our generous sponsors: the CPA Criminal Justice Psychology Section, Division 18 of the American Psychological Association, the International Association for Correctional and Criminal Justice Psychology, Multi-Health Systems, and Waypoint Centre for Mental Health Care.

Enjoy your time in Toronto!

Sincerely,

N. Zoe Hilton, Chair, NACCJPC 5

We wish to acknowledge the land on which the 5th North American Correctional and Criminal Justice Psychology Conference is taking place. For thousands of years, it has been the traditional land of the Huron-Wendat, the Seneca, and the Mississaugas of the Credit. Today, this meeting place is still the home to many Indigenous people from across Turtle Island and we are grateful to come together on this land in a spirit of truth, respect, learning, and collaboration.

NACCJPC 2023 – TRIBUTES TO OUR DEPARTED COLLEAGUES

Ruth Mann

Public Sector Prisons North, UK

Dr. Mann was an undisputed star in the field of correctional psychology. She remains a model for current and future generations of evidence-based practitioners. She deeply respected data while never wavering in her compassion for individuals in the criminal justice system – those serving sentences and those tasked with administering those sentences. Much of her professional career was devoted to designing and implementing what was perhaps the largest integrated treatment program in England and Wales for individuals with a history of sexual offending. The program received ongoing scrutiny from an international panel. Treatment sessions were videotaped and rated for integrity. Compensation for senior prison administrators was directly linked to the number of successful program completions. When a credible external evaluation failed to find the expected reduction in sexual recidivism, she accepted the results gracefully and turned her attention to what can be done better. In later years, Dr. Mann engaged her longstanding commitment to improving prison environments. She was there to remind us that people do not learn and grow when they feel unsafe and unvalued. Ruth valued people. She had the rare ability to connect. After only a brief exchange, people felt that they had a friend and an ally.

David Simourd

Psychologist, Kingston, Canada

Dave got his start with CPA over 35 years ago as a student with his first presentation at the 1985 Halifax convention. While completing his

MA at Lakehead University and his PhD at Carleton University, Dave was the first student representative of CPA's Criminal Justice section and was the inaugural co-editor of the Crime Scene newsletter with Dr. Franca Cortoni. Later, Dave served as Director-at-Large Clinical Training with the Criminal Justice

Section Executive. Dave epitomized the scientist practitioner, developing and validating assessment measures (e.g., Criminal Sentiments Scale-Modified); publishing dozens of articles, chapters, and technical reports; and serving on the editorial board of Criminal Justice and Behavior. At N4 in Halifax, Dave received the CPA Criminal Justice Section significant achievement award (shared with his co-authors for 2018 book, CBT with Justice-Involved Clients) and was also elected CPA Fellow for his outstanding contributions to professional psychology science and practice. Dave is remembered for his kindness, good humour, and zeal for life.

Lynn Stewart
Correctional Service Canada

Dr. Stewart began working for the Correctional Service of Canada at Warkworth Institution in the 1990's as a clinical psychologist, and went on to become the Director of Programs at National Headquarters. She was the epitome of the scientist-practitioner - concerned about the welfare of her clients and others and curious and up to date on current research. But she was much more than this. She was an active researcher across a range of topics, and a gracious and sharing colleague. In her consultations with national and international organizations, such as the UK Accreditation Panel, she was appreciated for her thoughtfulness, her generosity of her time, and her commitment to advancing our field. Colleagues could always rely on her to share her thoughts, recent research findings, and her support and passion regarding corrections-based research. She is remembered as smiling, patiently listening to others during meetings, and speaking rarely but profoundly.

Jodi Viljoen
Simon Fraser University (SFU), Canada

Dr. Viljoen earned her Ph.D. in Clinical Forensic Psychology from SFU in 2004. She started her professional career at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln from 2004 to 2006. She returned to SFU in 2006 and was promoted to Full Professor in 2019. Her research focused on improving mental health and treatment services for adolescents in the justice system and the prevention of violence and offending. Dr. Viljoen's work is widely cited in criminal justice psychology internationally, including the development of the strengths-based tool, the Short-Term Assessment of Risk and Treatability: Adolescent Version. Among her many accolades were the APA Div. 41 Saleem Shah Award for Early Career Contributions (2010), and induction into the College of New Scholars, Artists, and Scientists of the Royal Society of Canada. Dr. Viljoen was known for being an outstanding mentor, and for her passionate commitment to promoting social change and Indigenous Reconciliation.

Keith McFarlane
Ontario Ministry of the Solicitor General, Canada

Dr. Keith McFarlane passed away suddenly and unexpectedly from a medical event on January 9, 2020. Keith was one of those clinical correctional forensic psychologists who exemplified all that our area of psychology could offer. He was an excellent clinical psychologist who devoted himself to practicing within correctional facilities, and then as the only Ontario Ministry of the Solicitor General staff psychologist working in the community, at parole offices in Ottawa. He contributed in so many additional ways: as a practitioner, lead and trainer for Critical Incident Stress as well as for Crisis Negotiation, a Crisis Program Evaluator, Associate Trainer at the Ontario Correctional Services College, Clinical Adjunct Professor at the School of Psychology at the University of Ottawa from 1999 to 2013 and within his work for the Ministry of the Solicitor General Ontario, he trained and mentored many doctoral students in psychology. Keith was an amazing individual. All who knew him, including those countless offenders who benefitted from his work over the years, have gained much from his being and from his many contributions.

Peter Hoaken
Western University, Canada

Dr. Hoaken completed his undergraduate studies at Queen's University, his Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology at McGill University in 2001, and his subsequent Post-Doctoral Fellowship at Dalhousie University. His forensic research, often in collaboration with the Correctional Service of Canada, involved correctional rehabilitation and the characteristics of men and women who commit offenses. Dr. Hoaken was a faculty member in the Psychology Department at the University of Western Ontario from 2003 and was a Criminal Justice Psychology Section member, until his untimely death in 2022.

CALL FOR PAPERS: PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES

Submission deadline: August 1, 2023

The journal Psychological Services looks to the North American Correctional and Criminal Justice Psychology Conference (NACCJPC) for original submissions for an upcoming issue.

DETAILS

The Criminal Justice Section of Division 18 of APA is proud to cosponsor the 5th North American Correctional and Criminal Justice Psychology Conference (NACCJPC): Towards a Justice System that Works, in Toronto, Canada June 23–25, 2023. Psychological Services is the official journal of Division 18 (Psychologists in Public Service) and publishes high-quality articles on a broad range of psychological services across various public sectors.

This will be the fourth time that Psychological Services is developing a package of peer-reviewed articles from the original empirical research on correctional and criminal justice psychology topics stemming from presentations at the stellar NACCJPC, including the provision of mental health services in correctional, criminal justice, and psycho-legal settings.

Requested manuscripts include those reporting general outcomes data, other evidences and innovations for interventions and clinical assessment methods, including: cost savings analyses, customer satisfaction, mental health symptom change, risk or need or competency instruments, increased assessment reliability and validity, intervention impact on various spheres of psychosocial functioning (e.g., reintegration into the workforce), and criminal justice workforce studies.

The package will feature Associate Editor Femina Varghese, University of Central Arkansas and Guest Coeditor Philip Magaletta.

The deadline for submission for potential inclusion in the NACCJPC package is August 1, 2023.

Please follow the submission guidelines at <https://www.apa.org/pubs/journals/ser> and manuscripts must be submitted electronically through the at manuscript submission web portal at <https://www.editorialmanager.com/svs/default2.aspx>. Please specify in your cover letter that the submission is intended for the special package of articles linked to the NACCJPC and address your letter to Dr. Philip Magaletta, guest coeditor. All papers submitted will be initially screened by the associate and guest editors and then sent out for blind peer review, if evaluated as appropriate for the journal.

For further questions related to this package of articles, please contact Dr. Magaletta at pmagaletta@msn.com, or see members of the N5 Steering Committee during the conference.
