Monday, February 6, 2012

Canadians Need Better Access to Psychological Services

OTTAWA, February 6, 2012 /Canada NewsWire/ - Today in honour of Psychology Month, the Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA), the Mood Disorders Society of Canada (MDSC) and the Canadian Psychological Association (CPA) joined forces to highlight the need to enhance access to mental health services in Canada.

Mental disorders are a leading cause of disability in Canada and represent a significant burden on the economy. It estimated to cost the Canadian economy $51-billion annually. Psychologists are the largest group of regulated and specialized mental health care providers in Canada. Yet Canadians, in particular those in lower and middle income levels, face significant barriers when it comes to accessing psychological services due to their cost.

"The services of psychologists are not funded by provincial health insurance plans which make them inaccessible to Canadians with modest incomes or no insurance" said Peter...
Coleridge, National Chief Executive Officer, of the CMHA. This is in spite of the fact that some of the most effective treatments for common mental disorders - depression and anxiety - are psychological ones like cognitive behaviour therapy.

The U.K. has invested 400 million pounds over four years to make psychological therapies more accessible, and Australia has also enhanced access to psychologists through its publicly funded health insurance plans” adds Coleridge. "Canada must do the same."

"It is vitally important that we look to the needs of the community when it comes to mental disorders and health promotion and that we respond to those in ways that are effective” said Dave Gallow, Associate National Executive Director of MDSC. "Our research has found that the lack of insured services prevents a majority of individuals with mental illnesses from seeking the support they need."

Next week the Government of Manitoba is hosting a mental health summit with a focus on children and youth. Seventy percent of adults living with a mental disorders experience the causes or onset of their disorders before age 18. Early intervention can make a dramatic difference in the course of a disorder and, ultimately in a person's life.

"Psychological services are proven effective in helping Canadians to manage and overcome psychological problems and disorders,” added Dr Karen Cohen, Chief Executive Officer of the Canadian Psychological Association. "Canada's private health care insurance plans and publicly funded programs don't do enough to ensure Canadians have equal and adequate access to needed psychological service. Canada's governments and employers must do more to ensure all Canadians - regardless of income - can access the psychological care they need."

The GWSA Welcomes You!

With almost 3,000 members, the Guelph Wellington Seniors Association is one of the largest organizations of its kind in Canada. We have a straightforward mission…"To empower older adults to be active, to be involved and to age successfully."

We are a non-profit, registered charity. The GWSA partners with the City of Guelph in the operation of the Evergreen Seniors Community Centre, a state-of-the-art recreation facility.

The GWSA also operates in other locations such as the West End Community Centre, Norfolk Street United Church and, in the not-too-distant future, will be a key Partner with the City in the design and use of the new South End Community Centre.

GWSA makes available some 90 organized programs, activities and services throughout the year as well as special events and public interest forums.

We are supported by the active... participation of the more than 500 volunteers who make it all possible.

Please Join Us!...and visit our website at www.gwsa-guelph.ca

Blog Archive

▼ 2012 (13)
  ▼ February (4)
    Canadians Need Better Access to Psychological Serv...
    Money management help from your most trusted sourc...
    World Cancer Day marked with new Canadian survey r...
    Canadian Government invests in personalized medici...
  ▼ January (9)
  ▼ 2011 (134)
  ▼ 2010 (99)
  ▼ 2009 (3)

GWSA Blog List

family lineages and history

Beauties of America:
Staffordshire Pottery - On a September day in 1822, Staffordshire Pottery owner John Ridgway left Liverpool on a ship bound for Boston, Massachusetts. The purpose of his visit...
19 hours ago

:: Duffer's Rule ::

Healthy polar bear cub makes debut - photo credit:(CNW Group/Toronto Zoo) Healthy Polar Bear Cub Makes Debut at Toronto Zoo. TORONTO,
February 3, 2012 /Canada
NewsWire/ - After a precario...
20 hours ago

Take Advantage of Your Seniority
Cure for liver disease is $1million closer - Canadian Liver Foundation announces new research funding for 2012
TORONTO, February 6, 2012 /Canada NewsWire/ - In a lab somewhere in Canada, the next...
22 hours ago

++ Go Evergreen! ++
New Canadian Electrical Code a Green Light for the Future - Electric vehicle charging stations, renewable energy systems, fuel cells all addressed in 2012 CEC
TORONTO, February 6, 2012 /Canada NewsWire/ - CSA S...
23 hours ago

Rural Living Canada
Future Physicians call upon Government of Canada to remove barriers to rural practice -
OTTAWA, February 6, 2012 /Canada NewsWire/ - The Canadian Federation of Medical Students (CFMS) is bringing tomorrow's physicians to Parliament Hill fo...
1 day ago

eating better - eat well
Collaboration between food industry and government regulators would make a good system better - OTTAWA,
February 1, 2012 /Canada
NewsWire/ - Canada’s food industry and government regulators have an opportunity to work as partners to make a good sy...
4 days ago

:: Cyber Security for Seniors ::

Consumer alert: Debt reduction companies - Beware of “too good to be true offers” OTTAWA,

January 10, 2012 /Canada
NewsWire/ - The Financial Consumer Agency of Canada (FCAC) today issued a Cons...
3 weeks ago