

The Black Psychology Section of the CPA Presents:

Dr. Rick Bradshaw

"Observed & Experiential Integration" (OEI)

12:00pm to 2:00 pm EST

Monday, February 13, 2023

Register for this free virtual event here

Open to all students and section members only

Rick Bradshaw, PhD RPsych

Dr. Rick Bradshaw is a Psychologist with 45 years of experience, primarily treating psychological trauma and anxiety. He has made over 60 presentations at national and international conferences, including 8 Keynote Presentations and Invited Addresses, to audiences as large as 2,000. He has also trained and treated people in Indonesia, Korea, and China. He has taught graduate students in three post-secondary institutions, and for ten years was the Senior Psychologist and Director of Training in the Counselling Service of Simon Fraser University. While at SFU he also raised $1.3 million and served as Project Director for the Knowledge for Youth About Careers Interactive Video Project for 2 ½ years. More recently, he worked for 2 years as Clinical Manager in a psychophysiology clinic, applying neurofeedback to treatment of trauma, anxiety, depression, sleep disorders, ADHD, and OCD. Rick has also co-developed a new psychotherapy called “Observed & Experiential Integration” (OEI), which has been used to treat the symptoms of all forms of psychological trauma.

To join the Black Psychology Section of the CPA

Please visit

<https://cpa.ca/sections/black-psychology/>
or contact: membership@cpa.ca

