

CPA - Section 10 International / Cross-Cultural

SECTION NEWSLETTER November ,1994

A WORD FROM THE EDITOR:

Welcome to our fall issue. We will be reporting on the International and Cross-Cultural Psychology section business meeting which took place in Penticton. A variety of interesting ideas for section activities were shared and they will be further investigated by various section members. One idea which met with section approval is an award for student research in the area of international and cross-cultural psychology. Details appear in the newsletter further on.

MYSTERY COMMITTEE STRUCK:

Once again, a newsletter committee was established. Three new people indicated an interest in involvement with the newsletter. Unfortunately, neither the addresses or phone numbers of two of the three people were recorded by those at the section meeting. CPA itself does not have their addresses or phone numbers, which also means they don't receive the newsletter. So, if anyone knows the whereabouts of JOLAINE STATES or DAVID EVANS we would really appreciate it if you could tell them we're desparately looking for them, and could they please get in touch with the editor? Many Thanks!

Our found newsletter committee member is Randall Tonks who will be our B.C. regional representative. Randy can be reached through the Simon Fraser University Psychology Department (604) 291-3354, or through E-mail at tonks@sfu.ca

Once again, if you have any items of interest you wish to see in future newsletters, please send them along to current newsletter committee members or myself at the numbers above. We welcome conference announcements, book reviews, job ads, articles, or anything else of interest to section members. If you wish to reach the Editor, please write:

- b) Several ideas were put forth for a section symposium. Yaya de Andrade suggested that the symposium be on the political dimension of trauma and cross-cultural research.

Anand Paranjpe suggested that the symposium concern the implications of cross-cultural research, including ways that we can promote our own research to granting agencies and how can we promote cross-cultural research generally.

- c) Yaya de Andrade suggested a one-day workshop on cultural aspects in psychology, to be presented by a team of scholars. This workshop would include a French Canadian aspect, i.e. a discussion of French/English culture, and the importance of these groups for cross-cultural psychology.
- d) Anand Paranjpe read Lynne MacLean's report. In her report Lynne asked for suggestions of how the section money should be spent. The following suggestions were made:
 - 1) Money should continue to be spent on the newsletter.
 - 2) A survey on cross-cultural courses in Canada was proposed. Gira Bhatt and Marta Young will conduct the survey. This motion was carried.
 - 3) An award was proposed for the best student paper. The choice of paper would be based on CPA abstracts. It was further suggested that faculty members create a fund and donate to this cause. A subcommittee would decide who will receive the award.
- e) It was noted that there is little opportunity to socialize with section members during CPA conventions and it was suggested that there be a social hour at the next convention. This meeting might include a wine and cheese party, etc.
- f) Yaya de Andrade suggested that a new activity be initiated by the section. The section could contact cultural organizations in the town in which the CPA convention takes place and ask them to present aspects of their folk culture.
- g) A committee was created to study the possibility of including cross-cultural sensitivity training as a criterion for accreditation. The chair is Christine Wong, and the members are Paul Gronnerud and Marta Young.
