

Registered Psychologist (Private Practice)

Vancouver Island Psychological Services is a busy and growing private psychology practice with two office locations in beautiful Victoria, B.C. We provide a wide range of psychological assessment and treatment services to children, adolescents, and adults with a wide range of presenting problems and concerns. More information about our practice can be found on our website (www.vipsychology.ca).

Given the broad scope of the services we provide, we are always interested in hearing from psychologists who may be a good fit for our practice. However, at present, we are actively seeking psychologists who work with trauma and PTSD and/or who have a background in working with couples.

A particular focus of Vancouver Island Psychological Services is on assessing and treating PTSD and other trauma-related concerns in active military members, veterans, and first responders (including police, paramedics, and firefighters). We are currently seeking doctoral-level psychologists who have interest and experience working with these populations to join our team in an associate capacity.

In addition, couples' therapy represents a growing part of our practice and we are currently seeking an associate psychologist who is interested in providing this service as part of his/her practice (this could be combined with individual work).

Vancouver Island Psychological Services provides associates with a supportive and collegial working environment, and with the flexibility to tailor their caseloads and schedules to their own particular preferences. Further, we have an administrative support team consisting of six staff members as well as a comprehensive test library and access to a psychometrist.

For more information, or if you are interested in this opportunity, please contact Dr. Tanna Mellings, Clinic Co-Director, by email at tmellings@vipsychology.ca or by telephone at 1-877-727-7060.
