

Job Posting: Psychologist, PhD

Location: Burnaby, BC

Description:

Trinity Physiotherapy, Sport and Wellness is a multidisciplinary wellness clinic located in the SOLO District in Burnaby, BC. The clinic currently provides physiotherapy, registered massage therapy and kinesiology treatments. The mission statement of this clinic is to provide clients with the highest quality of care by focusing on the mind, body and soul – the Trinity of health care. Every effort is taken impress clients with a dedication to their health management. Current evidence is incorporated into each day's practice, and compassionate care is the cornerstone of our health care. The Trinity team is committed to encouraging clients to develop self-managing approaches to their conditions.

At Trinity, we believe that psychological wellness is equally as important as physical health. We work in a holistic manner to promote healthy behaviors by addressing emotional, social, and physical health aspects. We believe pain perception and management is best treated by understanding the importance of the bio-psychosocial model.

We are currently seeking a part-time Clinical Psychologist to join our team. There is the possibility of the position evolving into full time if desired. Our psychologist would have freedom of scheduling their own work hours to allow flexibility for other life and work commitments. The fee structure would be a competitive percentage fee split of the clinic's private fee. Direct billing to eligible health care providers is offered to clients and starting April 1st improved coverage for ICBC clients will come into effect.

Trinity's clinic owner is an instructor for the Canadian Physiotherapy Association, Orthopaedic Division who teaches at UBC and Lions Gate Hospital. He is an Olympic therapist who believes in team-based management and works hard to fully support each team member.

Requirements:

- PhD in Psychology
- Minimum 3 years of related experience
- Current registration with the College of Psychologists of British Columbia
- Eligible for licensure in the province of British Columbia
- Excellent English communication and interpersonal skills

- Demonstrated knowledge of psychological assessment and principles of recovery in mental illness
- Compassion and empathy towards patients dealing with various mental health concerns and dedication to promote personal growth

The Clinical Psychologist and their clients will have access to 3 hours of free underground parking, electrical car charging stations, a large and well-equipped gym, relaxation therapy rooms, and complimentary coffee/tea/refreshments.

Please email your resume to info@trinityphysio.com