

Clinical Psychologist

University of Regina

Pay Range: $73,645 - $96,178

Term: To June 30, 2021 with the possibility of extension

CIPSRT is a Knowledge Exchange Hub supporting a national network of researchers and public safety leaders developing research evidence to help current and former public safety personnel (PSP), their leaders, and their families to maintain and improve their mental health and well-being. CIPSRT hub activities include workshops and outreach events to support engagement between the CIPSRT Scientific Directorate, the research community, PSP leadership, and policy-makers, as well as support for an internet-based Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (iCBT) research project for PSP and their families throughout Canada.

The Clinical Psychologist will support the iCBT research project and conduct structured clinical interviews, clinical assessments, and clinical interpretations and be involved in providing iCBT for PSP study participants. The Clinical Psychologist will also act as a mentor and supervise other clinical research associates, clinical practicum students conducting structured clinical interviews, clinical assessments, and clinical interpretations for study participants. The successful candidate will participate in various reporting efforts for the research project including outreach to PSP organizations and public to explain treatment procedures.

Requirement:

Doctoral Degree in Clinical Psychology plus 3 years' experience as a Registered Psychologist (preferred) or Master's Degree in Clinical Psychology plus 5 years' experience as a Registered Psychologist. An equivalent combination of education, training and experience will be considered

Registration with the Saskatchewan College of Psychologists (required) and or Quebec College of Psychologists

Authorized Practice Endorsement (APE) from Saskatchewan College of Psychologists (required for work in Saskatchewan)

For full details on this position, please visit our website at:

<http://www.uregina.ca/hr/careers/opportunities.html> and search for competition number 20190609

The University of Regina is committed to an inclusive workplace that reflects the richness of the community that we serve. The University welcomes applications from all qualified individuals, including individuals within the University's employment equity categories of women, persons with disabilities, members of visible minorities, Indigenous persons, individuals of diverse gender and sexual orientation and all groups protected by the Human Rights Code.

Closing Date: August 18, 2019