

One-Year Full-Time Position For Graduating Psychology Interns and Early Career Psychologists

Enjoy quality of life in the Philippines with a caseload of 1 client and spend the rest of the time working on personal projects. The position involves providing home-based psychotherapy to a high functioning autistic adolescent with anxiety concerns. This position, which is based in Manila, Philippines and begins in October-November 2019, will be suitable for a graduating psychology intern and early career psychologist interested in providing home-based psychotherapy.

The role includes:

- Develop, implement and monitor treatment objectives through a treatment plan for the adolescent
- Provide intensive home-based therapy to the adolescent after school
- Provide support with social skills training and behavior management

An ideal candidate must have:

- A doctoral level degree (PhD or PsyD)
- Experience/interest in working with children and adolescents and knowledge of treating anxiety, depression, and related concerns
- Experience/interest in providing cognitive behavioral therapy
- Ability to maintain positive collegial relationships with the family.

The benefits of working in this position include:

- A competitive salary (CAD$65,000-70,000 per annum)
- Flexible daytime hours
- Generous vacation, holiday, and sick leave provision
- Free accommodation (live-in with the family as a possibility)
- Administrative and domestic support
- Visa arrangements are made by the client family.

Interested professionals are encouraged to submit resume or CV to jasanova@gmail.com.