

Psychology – Tenure-Track

Luther College at the University of Regina invites applications for a tenure-track position in Psychology at the Assistant Professor rank, with expertise in any of the following areas: Social Psychology, Cross-cultural Psychology, Humanistic Psychology, Positive Psychology, Psychology of Religion, Psychology of Spirituality, or History of Psychology. Exceptionally strong candidates in other related areas may be considered, but please note that Luther College does not have facilities for a wet lab or animal lab. The position is scheduled to start July 1, 2021. Applicants should have a PhD completed or near completion in one of the above fields.

Luther College is committed to excellence in teaching, but successful applicants should also demonstrate evidence of an active research program and be willing to supervise honours and graduate students. Responsibilities include teaching (typically, 4.5 courses per academic year), research, and service to the College, University, and community. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of undergraduate courses at all levels.

Luther College is federated with the University of Regina, a comprehensive public university. Candidates should identify strongly with the vision and mission of the College and express a clear interest in the smaller context of an interdisciplinary college, where spiritual and humanistic concerns and diversity are valued. Information about Luther College is available at www.luthercollege.edu/university, and about the University of Regina at www.uregina.ca.

The successful candidate will also be a member of the University of Regina's Department of Psychology (<https://www.uregina.ca/arts/psychology/index.html>), which has graduate programs in both Clinical and Experimental & Applied Psychology. Of interest to those applicants with a clinical background, the clinical program at the University of Regina is committed to the scientist-practitioner model and is accredited by the Canadian Psychological Association. All clinical applicants must have a PhD in Clinical Psychology from a Canadian Psychological Association - or American Psychological Association-accredited program, and must also be registered or be eligible for registration with the Saskatchewan College of Psychologists.

Applications should include: cover letter; curriculum vitae outlining disciplinary interests and professional qualifications; teaching dossier demonstrating excellence or potential in undergraduate teaching; sample of scholarly work; transcripts; and a statement explaining the candidate's interest in teaching at Luther College. Applicants should also provide the names and contact information of three referees. Please submit all documents in a single PDF file.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. Luther College is committed to employment equity and encourages applications from all qualified candidates including women, Indigenous people, visible minorities, people with disabilities, individuals of diverse gender and sexual orientation and all groups protected by the Human Rights Code. Scholars with experience in and knowledge of diverse Indigenous world views, cultures, and values are especially encouraged to apply.

For full consideration, applications should be received by February 15, 2021. Applications should be sent electronically to:
