Tenure Track Position: Cognitive Psychology

The Department of Psychology at the St. John's campus of Memorial University of Newfoundland and Labrador invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Human Cognition (F01335-2021-27). The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Cognitive Psychology (or a closely related field), will show evidence of an active research programme in cognitive psychology suitable to attract external funding, will contribute to teaching courses both within the cognitive area and in other areas of psychology, as applicable, and will be expected to participate in the Department's graduate experimental psychology programme. Applicants should have a demonstrated research programme that complements the department's current strengths in memory. This is the second position we are currently advertising in Human Cognition, and we invite candidates to apply for both as they are independent searches. They must apply to each position for which they wish to be considered.

Applicants should submit a (1) curriculum vitae, (2) statement of research interests and three selected reprints, (3) statement of teaching interests and evidence of effective teaching, (4) brief (1-2 pages) statement indicating commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion; and (5) names and email addresses of three referees to:

Dr. Christina Thorpe, Head, Department of Psychology, Memorial University, St. John's, NL, A1B 3X9.

Electronic submissions are strongly encouraged and may be sent via e-mail to Psychology.Head@mun.ca

Applications must be received by January 5th, 2022. The appointment will begin on September 1st, 2022.

The position is subject to budgetary approval. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. Memorial University is committed to employment equity and diversity and encourages applications from all qualified candidates, including women; people of any sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression; Indigenous peoples; visible minorities, and racialized people; and people with disabilities. As part of Memorial University's commitment to employment equity, all applicants are invited to identify themselves as a member of a target group(s) as appropriate. Applicants cannot be considered as a member of a target group(s) unless they complete an employment equity survey. If you do not receive a survey soon after applying for the position, or have any questions regarding this survey, please contact equity@mun.ca.

Memorial University of Newfoundland and Labrador is the largest university in Atlantic Canada. We acknowledge that the lands on which Memorial University's campuses are situated are in the traditional territories of diverse Indigenous groups, and we acknowledge with respect the diverse histories and cultures of the Beothuk, Mi'kmaq, Innu, and Inuit of this province. As the province's only university, Memorial plays an integral role in the education and cultural life of Newfoundland and Labrador. Offering diverse undergraduate and graduate programs to almost 20,000 students, Memorial provides a distinctive and stimulating environment for learning in St. John's, a safe, friendly city with historic charm, a vibrant cultural life, and easy access to a wide range of outdoor activities.
