MATTER HERE. At Vancouver Island University, your work matters.

We invite applications for the permanent, full-time role of Psychology Professor from accomplished university educators seeking to join a collegial department where teaching innovation and student success are highly valued. We seek applicants who share our passion for high-quality undergraduate education and can skillfully infuse their teaching with their scholarly work.

CANDIDATE EXPECTATIONS:

We seek to hire an individual whose area of specialization is neuropsychology or clinical neuropsychology. Priority will be given to candidates with expertise in areas that complement those already in the Department.

The teaching responsibilities of the successful candidates may include courses in:

- PSYC 111 and PSYC 112 Contemporary Psychology
- PSYC 205 Introduction to Biopsychology
- PSYC 305 Introduction to Biopsychology II
- PSYC 315 Introduction to Neuropsychology I
- PSYC 316 Introduction to Human Neuropsychology II

Those interested in teaching courses in research methods, statistical methods or sensation and perception should cite this interest in their cover letter. Courses may be developed that are aligned with a candidate's area of specialization. Candidates must demonstrate commitment to teaching, learning and student success through scholarship and institutional service.

Course descriptions and more information about the Psychology Department can be found at online (https://www.viu.ca/programs/arts-humanities-social-sciences/psychology)

CANDIDATE ATTRIBUTES:

- PhD in psychology from an APA or CPA accredited institution
- Recent experience and demonstrated excellence in teaching a wide range of psychology courses
- An established research program that complements the interests and expertise of current faculty
- A record of institutional service
- Active, ongoing participation in professional development activities
- Demonstrated proficiency with technology relevant to the position

TO APPLY:

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. VIU is collectively committed to building and sustaining a diverse and inclusive working and learning environment for faculty, staff, and students. In our journey towards greater diversity we invite applications from members of equity-seeking communities including women, racialized and Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, persons of all gender identities and sexual orientations who bring value to the VIU community through their lived experiences.

We encourage members of all equity-seeking groups to self-identify within their application cover letter. When a candidate voluntarily discloses this information in their cover letter, the information will be used only for the fulfillment of the career opportunity. Disclosure and/or self-identification with an equity-seeking group will not lead to advantageous treatment of a candidate who is not qualified.

ORGANIZATIONAL OVERVIEW:

Situated on the traditional territory of the Coast Salish peoples, Vancouver Island University is a comprehensive teaching university with 15,000 students across four campuses. VIU proudly fosters student success and strong community connections by providing access to a wide range of programs, from academic undergraduate and master’s to industry-responsive trades and vocational training. VIU is fortunate to host a large number of Indigenous students and provides a learning environment that is accessible, relevant for all learners, celebrates success and acknowledges history and traditions. To be a part of the VIU community is to know what it is like to matter here. The VIU community shares its collective gratitude with the Snuneymuxw, Quw’utsun, Tla’Amin, Snaw-naw-as and Qualicum First Nation on whose traditional, unceded territories we teach, learn, research, live and share knowledge. With hands raised to honour the original stewards of this place, we say Hay ch qa’ si’em siye’ yu mukw Mustimuxw.
