Thompson Rivers University (https://www.tru.ca) is a uniquely comprehensive, student-focused institution built on over 40 years of excellence in post-secondary education and training. TRU's spectacular main campus is located in Kamloops, BC (https://www.kamloops.ca), just a four hour drive from Vancouver, in the heart of the southern BC interior. Kamloops offers world class tourism and recreation, excellent cultural, social, and economic opportunities, as well as over 2,000 hours of sunshine annually.

The Department of Psychology is a thriving department that offers a BA with a Major or Minor in Psychology. The department also has an Honours program supported by several strong research programs. Undergraduate research, innovative teaching, and faculty-student interactions are highly valued and are a draw for many students and faculty. We are excited to be building our capacity for programming in social psychology and invite applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in Social Psychology. This position balances research and teaching and is dependent on budgetary approval. The appointment is scheduled to commence on July 1, 2022.

The candidate should have a demonstrated potential to develop a productive research program in social psychology that includes undergraduate students as collaborators. The successful candidate will be expected to apply and be competitive for external funding, and mentor students in our vibrant Honours program. The potential to develop community collaborations and applied research opportunities is also desirable. Candidates with particular strengths in open science, research design, and statistics (including R) are especially encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate courses in social psychology and research methods, as well as new upper-level undergraduate courses related to their area of expertise, which should diversify our current course offerings and/or contribute to TRU's general education curriculum. The candidate may also have the opportunity to coordinate the Honours Seminar and teach the Psychology Capstone course. The ability to supervise and/or teach in the proposed Masters in Human Rights and Social Justice program would be an asset. The successful candidate will be committed to scholarly teaching with the potential to be an outstanding teacher.

The successful candidate will contribute to sustaining the collegiality and reputation of the department, with service responsibilities to support Departmental initiatives initially, and expanding to include activities to support Divisional and Institutional objectives. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to engage diverse student populations. Candidates are invited to describe their approach to considering equity, diversity, and inclusion in their research, teaching, and service in their application.

Deadline: The committee will begin reviewing applications on January 10, 2022, but will continue to accept applications until the position is filled.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants should hold a PhD in Psychology obtained by July 1, 2022.
Interested candidates should submit the following:

1. Current CV

1. One-page statement of research interests

1. One-page statement of teaching philosophy

1. List of courses taught/willing to teach (in order of priority/preference)

1. Complete contact information for three professional references

Thompson Rivers University is strongly committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive community. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our staff, our faculty and its scholarship including, but not limited to, women, Indigenous, Black and People of Color, persons with disabilities and persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity. This hire is part of the Psychology Department’s commitment to increasing representation by BIPOC faculty in the department, in recognition of historic underrepresentation of non-White faculty in higher education in Canada. Please note that all qualified candidates are encouraged to apply, however applications from Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Apply Here: https://www.click2apply.net/Z4Md8QCX1OLyfzxQcbPVD

PI160092666