Director – York University Psychology Clinic

An exciting career opportunity awaits a seasoned psychologist to lead the York University Psychology Clinic (YUPC), a state-of-the-art mental health and training clinic that has shown remarkable success and growth over its first decade. The Clinic has established a solid reputation in providing a range of leading-edge, effective psychological services to members of the York University community and the community at large, serving infants, children, families, adults and seniors. In addition, the YUPC provides in-house training opportunities to graduate students in the Department of Psychology’s Canadian Psychological Association (CPA) accredited Clinical Programs.

This is a multi-faceted position. The Director will take a strategic approach to shaping the delivery of services, and the dynamic integration of research into all aspects of the Clinic’s offerings. They will be responsible for creatively leading and forging new directions to enhance the training of our graduate students in the provision of mental health enhancing services to an increasingly diverse range of clients. Fostering and strengthening community collaboration and knowledge mobilization will be encouraged along with ensuring the delivery of a highly professional continuing education agenda. While the Director has oversight of all clinic operations, the administration of the clinic will be handled by the Clinic Manager who reports to this position.

Working under the general direction of the YUPC Advisory Board and the Faculty of Health Executive Officer, the incumbent in this full-time position has broad scope for independent action on all matters related to Clinic operations.

For a detailed job description go to https://jobs-ca.technomedia.com/yorkuuniversity/
Or contact Dr. Louise Hartley at lhartley@yorku.ca