

Open rank faculty position in Clinical Psychology

The University of Regina is a vibrant and growing campus in a province with a booming economy. The Department of Psychology comprises a large undergraduate and honours program in addition to experimental and clinical graduate programs and has received numerous accolades for its research output and impact. Most recently, a paper published in Canadian Psychology (<https://dx.doi.org/10.1037/cap0000378>) identified 3 department faculty as being amongst the top 15% most productive clinical psychologists in Canada.

As part of an ongoing expansion of the Clinical Psychology Graduate Program, the Department of Psychology at the University of Regina is seeking applications for an open rank position in Clinical Psychology. Area of clinical research specialization is open, and rank of the position will be commensurate with experience. Date of commencement is negotiable depending on the availability of the successful candidate, but we wish to fill this position as soon as possible.

Applicants must have a PhD in clinical psychology from a CPA- or APA-accredited program and must be eligible to be registered as a psychologist in Saskatchewan. The successful candidate must show clear evidence of excellence in research, teaching, and clinical work and should be willing and able to teach graduate level courses in assessment and intervention.

Duties of the successful candidate will include teaching at the undergraduate and graduate level, honours and graduate thesis supervision, supervision of clinical practicums, and participation in departmental activities. The successful candidate is expected to have an independent and active program of research in clinical psychology that would be eligible for Tri-Council and/or Canada Foundation for Innovation funding.

The University of Regina's Strategic Plan 2020-2025 (kahkiyaw kiwâhkômâkaninawak – All Our Relations) emphasizes Well-being and Belonging as a strategic priority, which includes prioritizing and supporting research in mental health. The Clinical Psychology Graduate Program at the University of Regina is committed to the scientist-practitioner model and is accredited by the Canadian Psychological Association. The Clinical Psychology Graduate Program has an on-site state-of-the-art Psychology Training Clinic. The Department maintains good relations with a number of health care, research, and other educational facilities both within Regina and throughout the province.

Review of applications will continue until the position is filled. Screening of applications will begin on July 15.

To apply, applicants must electronically submit the following documents via the online Human Resources portal <http://www.uregina.ca/hr/careers/opportunities.html>

1. a cover letter describing how the applicant meets the criteria for the position;
2. an up-to-date curriculum vitae;
3. a statement of clinical strengths and interests;
4. a statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness;
5. a statement of research interests, accomplishments, and future directions;
6. unofficial transcripts from all post-secondary institutions attended (please note: if successfully shortlisted for an interview, official transcripts sent directly from the post-secondary institutions will be required).

Those candidates contacted for an interview will be asked to have original transcripts and letters of reference sent directly to: Dean, Faculty of Arts, University of Regina, 3737 Wascana Parkway, Regina SK, S4S 0A2, or to Arts.Deans.Office@uregina.ca.

Please direct inquiries to Dr. Gordon Asmundson, Head of Psychology, Psyc.Head@uregina.ca.

All candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. Applicants representing designated diversity groups are encouraged to self-identify on their application.

The University of Regina is committed to an equitable and inclusive workplace that reflects the richness of the community that we serve. The University encourages applications from all individuals, including individuals within the University's employment equity categories of women, persons with disabilities, members of visible minorities/racialized groups, Indigenous people, individuals of diverse gender and sexual orientation, and all groups protected by the Human Rights Code.

The University will work to achieve a reasonable accommodation for candidates under the University of Regina's Workplace Accommodation Policy: <https://www.uregina.ca/policy/browse-policy/policy-EMP-080-005.html>. The University is committed to ensuring accommodation requests are considered on an individual basis, and reasonable accommodation plans are developed taking into account (i) the Bona Fide Occupational Requirements associated with the position, (ii) the restrictions and/or proposed accommodations based on current and relevant medical documentation, and (iii) undue hardship. Candidates may contact the Healthy Workplace Advisory at HWA@uregina.ca if they feel they may require an accommodation.
