Role Overview:

Join our InFocus Psychological Services Team! As a Psychologist, you will provide psychological treatment to adults with a range of presenting problems. The Psychologist will conduct treatment-oriented assessments, develop and implement individual treatment plans, write reports, and liaise with stakeholders. Treatment is evidence-based, and goals include assisting clients to return to work, enhancing psychosocial functioning, and improving quality of life. Back in Motion is a multidisciplinary clinical setting, and there will be opportunities to collaborate with other members of the rehabilitation team, including Physical Therapists, Occupational Therapists, Kinesiologists, and Physicians.

Why Join Us?

Early career clinicians are welcome at Back in Motion and we have a strong mentorship and training program supported by experienced psychologists. Ongoing development is key to our teams and there is opportunity for regular consultation and learning for all team members.

We are looking for Psychologists who have excellent clinical and interpersonal skills, capacity for clinical reasoning, and familiarity with diagnosis and causality.

Applicants must be registered or eligible for registration with the College of Psychologists of British Columbia and/or the College of Alberta Psychologists. Good organizational and writing skills are essential, and experience working with third-party payers and an understanding of rehabilitation and disability issues are an asset.

We offer competitive contract rates or salary and benefits package to the successful individual in addition to a signing bonus.

How to Apply: Email us your resume at careers@backinmotion.com.
