Broadview Psychology is currently seeking a child and adolescent psychologist to join our committed and compassionate practice of mental health professionals who work comprehensively with clients across the lifespan. We are a clinic that emphasizes evidence-based treatment, training, and consultation/supervision so that we can deliver high quality treatment. We engage in extensive program evaluation to ensure that we are offering effective services, and that we are continually enhancing our services. We highly value working collaboratively as a team with each other, and with our clients and their families. We are hoping to hire a child and adolescent psychologist to contribute by conducting comprehensive assessments and/or providing intervention to children, adolescents and families.

Qualifications:

- Doctoral degree in clinical psychology
- Registration with the CPBAO (or eligible for registration)
- Willingness and passion to provide a leadership role within the clinic

If wishing to provide intervention:

- Training and experience in treating emotional and behavioural dysregulation in children and adolescents.
- Training and experience in providing DBT, and openness to becoming DBT Certified
- Training and experience in providing CBT, ACT, and/or EFT

If wishing to conduct assessments/testing:

- Competency in conducting psychodiagnostic and psychoeducational testing with children and adolescents

Hours: Flexible schedule with a minimum of 2.5 days per week including some evening or weekend hours.

Location: Hybrid – in person (Toronto or Stouffville) and virtual

Benefits of joining the Broadview Psychology Team:

- Participation in an established and comprehensive DBT practice that works with clients across the life span
- Participation in weekly multi-disciplinary DBT consultation team meetings that provide education, consultation and support
- Extensive opportunities and support for continuing education
- Involvement in a range of activities including assessment, intervention, groups, parent/family/couple therapy, program evaluation, research, supervision/consultation, program development, workshops, or training
- Opportunity to grow, develop and take on leadership roles in the practice
- Considerable administrative and practical support from our admin team
- Hybrid and flexible working arrangement, including availability of well-equipped offices
- Participation in events and activities that enhance the team's cohesiveness and connection
